Program: From mosaics to algorithms: Literacy in the digital age Acronym: LDA
Project Number: 2026-1-EL01-KA122-ADU-000409627
Duration: 14/09/2026 – 13/09/2027

Summary

We applied in response to persistent educational inequalities, low learner confidence and growing exposure to misinformation and low-quality digital content. Our learners disengage from learning due to repeated experiences of failure, social marginalization and lack of critical media skills. By linking cultural heritage with media literacy and peer learning, the project addresses these structural challenges while strengthening critical thinking, social inclusion and active citizenship.

The three main objectives of the project are:

- Restoring teachers' self-confidence and their relationship with the learning process, improving their ability to actively pursue/commit to learning
- Restoring their social curiosity and extroversion as a driving force and encouragement to strive for their personal and professional development
- Empowering them to acquire analytical and critical thinking towards digital information and to make correct and safe use of the internet and social media

Results

By the end of the training, participants will be able to:

- Distinguish between factual information and opinions
- Identify common manipulation techniques
- Explain key journalistic standards for balanced reporting
- Differentiate between reliable and unreliable sources of information
- Recognize how photos and videos can be manipulated
- Apply simple verification practices before believing or sharing information
- Critically evaluate media content
- Assess the credibility of information sources
- Identify when media coverage marginalizes individuals or groups
- Produce simple, balanced informational content
- Demonstrate confidence in questioning information and awareness of personal bias
